Quote from Company:

"Local job fairs are a very good source for locating employable people within our area. One of the main benefits we see for our business is exposure. Sometimes small businesses such as Cameron Measurement Systems are over looked in a community like Duncan due to their size, location and products they produce. Job Fairs give us the opportunity to place our business in view of the local area and explain what, why and how our business is structured and the employment opportunities we offer in this community. Even though our business is part of a much larger company that is worldwide, most local people don't know that. These job fairs also spark interest in young people who attend to possibly gain a skill through a vocational facility that would be a needed skill for us at a later date."
